

The Henley & Partners Visa Restrictions Index 2014

Global Travel Freedom at a Glance

The Henley & Partners Visa Restrictions Index is a global ranking of countries according to the travel freedom that their citizens enjoy.

Henley & Partners analyze the visa regulations of all countries and territories in the world and present an index which ranks each by the number of other countries that their citizens can travel to without having to obtain a visa.

The index is produced in cooperation with the International Air Transport Association (IATA), which maintains the world's largest database of travel information, and is published annually.

How to read the index:

Countries are listed according to the numbers of other countries to which visa-free access is possible. Hence, Finland, Germany, Sweden, the UK and the US, who can all access 174 countries visa-free, the highest score achieved, are ranked in first position.

Methodology

The Henley & Partners Visa Restrictions Index contains the following assumptions:

There are 219 destination countries (territories) in total. The maximum attainable score is 218 (one point is subtracted to account for a national traveling to their own country, with the exception of nationals who must hold a visa to re-enter their home country, and for nationals of countries not considered as a destination. The latter group can therefore reach a max. score of 219). The amount of nationalities (passports) evaluated is 199. These are the 193 UN Member States, Chinese Taipei ("Republic of China Taiwan" passport), Kosovo, Palestinian Territory, Vatican City, Hong Kong (SAR China) passport, and the Macao (SAR China) passport.

The list was created with visa regulations effective on 20 May 2014, including temporary visa exemptions applicable for the 2014 summer tourist season.

The following countries are considered as a nationality, but not as a destination, as they do not enforce their own visa regulations. Those traveling to one of these countries must only comply with entry requirements set forth by their neighboring countries:

Andorra, Liechtenstein, Monaco, Palestinian Territory, San Marino, Vatican City

Those from the territories dependent on the United Kingdom hold British passports, therefore they are not considered as a nationality. However, these territories are considered as destinations as they enforce their own entry regulations: Anguilla, Bermuda, Cayman Islands, Falkland Islands, Gibraltar, Montserrat, Turks and Caicos Islands, Virgin Islands (British)

The following are considered as a destination, but not as a nationality. These territories enforce their own travel regulations, yet those originating from them hold passports issued by the authority of the governing country:

Territories dependent on Australia: Norfolk Island

Territories associated with New Zealand: Cook Islands, Niue
Territories under administration of the USA: Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico, Samoa (American), Virgin Islands (USA)

Territories under administration of the Netherlands: Aruba, Bonaire, St. Eustatius and Saba, Curacao, St. Maarten

Territories dependent on France: French Guiana, French Polynesia, French West Indies, Mayotte, New Caledonia, Reunion
